
Lakehead University, 2009

Humanities 101: A Lakehead University Community Initiative

ACTING DIRECTOR: Dr. J. Nicholas, Office RB 3011
CONTACT: tel. 807-343-8059
EMAIL: jnichola@lakeheadu.ca

Course location: BL1022
Course time: Thursdays, 6:00pm – 9:00pm (light meal at 5:30pm)
Website: <http://humanities101.lakeheadu.ca/>

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Welcome to Humanities 101! This multidisciplinary course is an introduction to basic issues in the humanities and social sciences– the study of human thought, culture, and society. It is intended to cover a broad spectrum of topics including (but not limited to): Social Work, Indigenous Studies, English, History, Women’s Studies, and Cultural Studies. The course has four main goals:

- To introduce students to the excitement and interest that accompanies the discovery and creation of knowledge.
- To acquaint students with the potentials benefits of higher education experiences.
- To provide assistance to overcoming barriers to higher-level educational experiences.
- To provide an opportunity for students to explore university-level education.

TEXTS

There are no texts for this multidisciplinary course. Articles, poems, books, and other readings will be distributed in class.

THERE ARE NO TESTS, EXAMS, OR QUIZZES, AND ALL ASSIGNMENTS ARE OPTIONAL.

COURSE SCHEDULE

Date	Topic	Professor
Aug.28		WELCOME & ORIENTATION
Sept 3	Social Constructions and Social Oppression: The Human Story	Dr. Roger Delaney, Professor, School of Social Work
Sept. 10	Library Tour and Discovery Session	Janice Mutz, Information Literacy Librarian, Chancellor Paterson Library, Lakehead Univeristy We will still meet in BL 1022 for dinner at 5:30
Sept. 17	Historically Constructing Canadian Women's Working Lives	Dr. Helen Smith, Associate Professor, History, and Chair/Associate Professor, Women's Studies
Sept. 24	JAPANDA Assimilation Game	Prof. Dolores Wawia, Assistant Professor and Native Elder, Faculty of Education
Oct. 1	Communication Techniques of Native People/ Residential Schools	Prof. Dolores Wawia, Assistant Professor and Native Elder, Faculty of Education
Oct. 8	Exploring Medical History	Dr. Patricia Jasen, Professor and Chair, History
Oct. 15		PATHWAYS SESSION FOR STUDENTS This session is an informal opportunity for students to talk about educational opportunities and have ANY questions answered. Educators from Thunder Bay will be there to discuss options and pathways for continuing your educational journey. Please feel free to invite the person who recommended you.
Oct. 22	Can One Think Without Language?: Language, Culture and Society	Dr. Monica Flegel, Assistant Professor, English
Oct. 29	Building Common Ground and Building Community	Prof. S. Brenda Small, Dean, Neganeewin College of Academic and Community Development
Nov. 5	Are Disney Movies Good for your Kids? Childhood and Popular Culture	Dr. Monica Flegel, Assistant Professor, English
Nov. 12	Figurative Language in Poetry and Music	Dr. Gillian Siddall, Dean of the Faculty of Social Sciences and Humanities
Nov. 19	Figurative Language in Poetry and Music	Dr. Gillian Siddall, Dean of the Faculty of Social Sciences and Humanities
Nov. 26	Book Clubs, Past and Present: Humanities 101 The Color Purple Book Club	Dr. Renée Bondy, Women's Studies, University of Windsor
Dec. 3		GRADUATION CELEBRATION: Bring your family and friends to celebrate your graduation from the program, have dinner, and receive your certificate.

ASSIGNMENTS AND DUE DATES

Assignments will be given at the discretion of the professors. If the professor opts to give you an assignment, he/she will describe guidelines for it during class time. You may request feedback on the assignments that are submitted. Due dates will be determined at the time that the assignment guidelines are provided.

EVALUATION

Since this is a non-credit course, no grade (pass, fail or letter grade) will be provided. There will be opportunity to obtain feedback on your progress multiple times during the course and share ideas for your future after the course, if you wish.

SUPPORT FOR STUDENTS

Community Service Agency Personnel have recommended you for the course. These individuals have agreed to support you with kind words of support during the course. They are an invaluable resource for you if you are feeling anxious about this educational experience. Please don't hesitate to talk to them about anything.

Lakehead University Mentors are graduate students who have volunteered to help you with orientation to the university and academic issues that might come up during the course. They can tell you where things are, help you search the library, use the computers, proofread any assignments, and generally commiserate about concerns that all new students experience. Ask them questions, they want to be helpful to you! They can go with you to talk with the professor, if you are shy to approach the professor directly. They each have unique stories about how they got here, and can share information about the university community.

Graduates of Humanities 101 are volunteers that are available during class time to support you. If you are feeling shy in class, then these graduates of the Humanities 101 program have experience that can help you participate in the class activities. They have been exactly where you are, and are eager to talk with you.

Lakehead University Professors have volunteered to lecture for this course. They are not being paid and it is not part of their workload. They are experts in their fields and are happy to discuss course topics with you. Don't hesitate to approach the professors with questions, comments and clarifications. They love their topic and are here to support you.

Volunteers will be popping in and out of class from time to time. They too are here to help you, if you want it. Please feel comfortable to approach anyone.

The Director is responsible for the development and administration of the course. She will, from time to time, come to class and ask for your feedback on how things are going so far. The purpose of this is to learn FROM YOU what is working well...and not so well. The goal is to use information to improve the course for future students. Please feel free to be candid during these sessions.

Other students. Yes, other students can have an important influence on your learning experience. The truth of the matter is no one succeeds alone. We all need each other to clarify information, validate ideas and challenge assumptions. By respectfully discussing issues with other students, you can gain greater knowledge about a topic.